Comments on ACRAPAC Study JOINT SOVIET/CHICOM DEVELOPMENT of AMUR RIVER BASIN

The following comments are given in answer to your request of 22 May 1959:

The report appears to be quite complete and accurate as of its date of preparation. Only one discrepancy was observed -- on page 6, the date for completion of the "entire basin development" is given as 1957, whereas the date probably should have been 1970 or later. This may well have been a typographical error.

The report is generally clear and well organized. Although issue can be taken with some of the analyst's conclusions in Section V, the overall report is a useful compilation of the basic open-source data on the Amur project. If the report had been received by this office within a month or two after preparation, it would have been of some value.
